

Earth is made up of the same element as the rest of the terrestrial plants. It makes sense they share the same property. Like Venus which has volcanoes. They all have craters and maria. Mars is said to once have a large body of water just like Earth. Like Earth's surface it has fingerprints of water and islands. The Moon and Mercury look a lot alike because they both have a lot of craters.